

STARBUCKS PARTNERS WITH AT&T TO PROVIDE FREE WIRELESS ACCESS

Partnership will impact 7,000 U.S. locations and over 12 million AT&T and Starbucks customers

SEATTLE and SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 11, 2008 – AT&T Inc. (NYSE:T) and Starbucks (NASDAQ:SBUX) announced their partnership today to bring free wireless access to more than 7,000 Starbucks U.S. locations. AT&T and Starbucks partnered to offer both free and paid Wi-Fi access at Starbucks locations in order to reach both the frequent and occasional Starbucks customers Starting this spring, all Starbucks cardholders can use two hours of free Wi-Fi service each day. In addition, all 100,000 U.S.-based Starbucks employees will receive free Wi-Fi at Starbucks stores.

This partnership will provide Starbucks customers and employees easy access to AT&T's Wi-Fi network, the largest in the United States, with more than 17,000 U.S. hot spots. At&T's remote access services business customers can also access the free Wi-Fi service at Starbucks locations.

"We are excited to offer free wireless access to our loyal Starbucks customers. We hope that this partnership with AT&T will draw in new customers we had been previously unable to reach," Chris Bruzzo, chief technology officer of Starbucks Coffee Company, said.

Not only can qualifying AT&T customers and Starbucks card holders access the Wi-Fi network, but customers can also purchase tiered access to the network at $3.99 for every two-hour period or $19.99 each month. The monthly membership includes access to the 70,000 AT&T hot spots in 89 countries around the world.
